Types of Institutional Aid

DEAN’S SCHOLARSHIPS: Scholarships are awarded to outstanding entering first-year students with superior academic records and LSAT scores. These scholarships are awarded as tuition waivers and are renewed automatically if the required grade point average is maintained.

UPPER-CLASS SCHOLARSHIPS: In the spring semester of each academic year, students may apply for annual and endowed scholarships.

YELLOW RIBBON PROGRAM: Institutions of higher learning like Loyola have elected to participate in the Yellow Ribbon Program to make additional funds available to qualified veterans. Institutions choose the amount of tuition and fees that will be contributed. The Department of Veterans Affairs will match that amount and issue payment directly to the institution. Awards will be made on a first come, first served basis after applicants have submitted their Certification of Eligibility to Loyola. A limited number of scholarships will be available through the law school.

Cost of Attendance: Tuition, Fees, Books and Living Expenses

A student’s cost of attendance varies depending on the division (full-time/part-time) and housing status. If a student does not live with his or her parents, the budget for living expenses is $19,150. Students not living with parents are responsible for finding off-campus housing. A budget for books is factored into the cost of attendance.

TYPES OF FEDERAL AID
Students may complete the FAFSA online at www.fafsa.ed.gov using our school code 002016. By submitting the FAFSA, a student initiates the financial aid process. Our office will respond by sending an award letter to the admitted student, detailing any scholarship offered through Law Admissions, a student’s eligibility for a Direct Unsubsidized Loan, and the steps necessary to receive loan funds.

1. Direct Unsubsidized Loan: An Unsubsidized Loan is a non-need-based loan. The student is responsible for all interest from the time the loan is disbursed until it is paid in full.

2. Direct Graduate Plus Loan: Law students may borrow under the PLUS Loan Program up to the cost of attendance less other estimated financial assistance. The requirements include a determination that the applicant does not have an adverse credit history. Applicants for these loans are required to complete an application/master promissory note online at www.studentloans.gov.

Congress has passed and the President has signed The Bipartisan Student Loan Certainty Act of 2013, which ties federal student loan interest rates to financial markets. Under this Act, interest rates will be determined each June for new loans being made for the upcoming award year, which runs from July 1 to the following June 30. Each loan will have a fixed interest rate for the life of the loan.

2013 - 14 Rates:
- Unsubsidized Loan: 5.41% Interest Rate
- Graduate Plus Loan: 6.41% Interest Rate

FEDERAL LOAN REPAYMENT
While all federal loans are automatically assigned a 10-year standard repayment plan, the Department of Education offers borrowers a variety of repayment options, allowing borrowers to extend the repayment term. Once a student graduates or ceases enrollment, a six month grace period will occur before repayment begins.

GILLIS LONG LOAN REPAYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM
Many Loyola College of Law graduates devote their careers to public service work as advocates for traditionally underserved communities. Given a significant law school debt burden, such careers might not be feasible without some form of assistance. Since 1991, the Gillis Long Poverty Law Center’s Loan Repayment Assistance Program (LRAP) has tried to address this problem and remains committed to furthering its goal of providing quality legal assistance to communities throughout the country.

LRAP is available for Loyola College of Law J.D. program graduates who work full-time as attorneys in government or nonprofit jobs throughout the United States. Applicants are eligible to apply for a loan immediately upon accepting a qualifying position unless awards have already been finalized for the current year. These loans are then forgiven in the following year, provided the graduate has complied with the rules of the program. Graduates may apply yearly as long as they remain in an approved program job position.
