Assessment Notes for 2012:

The attached documents are comments that will help the College of Law renew its efforts in guiding department heads to comply with SACS regulations. Prior to August 2012, the College of Law used assessment forms to comply with ABA regulations which vary from SACS accreditation principles. However, the previous assessment forms are accurate in substance and give us specific information regarding the yearly progress of each department in the school. Results from each department should be noted. Two departments are in transition operationally and will be reassessed in January 2013. For these two departments, e-mails commenting on their efforts in filing out the internal assessment form highlight their inability to show progress because of time constraints.
