Narrative/Justification for Judgment of Compliance

Loyola University New Orleans School of Law provides law students with a variety of information technology resources including two state-of-the-art computer labs, multi-media facilities in all standard classrooms and an information technology staff dedicated to providing instruction to students and maintaining the facilities. The law faculty makes substantial use of Blackboard teaching resources as evidenced by the large number of classes utilizing this resource and there are several members of the law faculty who have established personal web sites for distributing information to and for communication with law students. Additionally, students have the option to take examinations using the ExamSoft software.
