

Kathryn Venturatos Lorio
Emerging Scholars Program
Loyola University New Orleans College of Law
Friday, April 19, 2024

Loyola University New Orleans College of Law is excited to announce the 2024 date for our biennial Kathryn Venturatos Lorio Emerging Scholars Program, which was launched in 2022 to honor our beloved colleague, celebrate the civil law, and bring together civilians to support other aspiring scholars and teachers.

The 2024 program will be held on Loyola's campus on Friday, April 19, 2024.

This day-long workshop is designed to assist emerging scholars who have a scholarly interest in the civil law, particularly those interested in joining the academy. We are seeking a group of emerging scholars, representing graduates of various law schools, who will present either a draft article or a developing idea to panels of civil law professors. These seasoned professors will offer feedback on the presentations, mentorship, and information and advice on entering the academy. Loyola hopes to offer publication assistance to the emerging scholars, as well.

Name:

Phone Number:

Law School:

Graduation Year:

Referred by:

Topic:

Type of Presentation: Draft Article* Developing Idea

Please attach (1) a brief abstract describing your topic; and (2) your curriculum vitae.

Submit this form and accompanying documents no later than 5 p.m. on December 1, 2023 to Professor Meera Sossamon at sossamon@loyno.edu.

*Those presenting a draft article should submit the article for circulation to the panelists by Friday, April 1, 2024.