+ This course is being taught online as an asynchronous course.

* Students completing the course earn experiential learning credits equivalent to the credit hours earned in the course.

% This course is being taught as a synchronous course online.

@ This course will have additional hours each week of work to be done asynchronously to complete the requisite credit hours.

This course will have some designated online synchronous sessions held at the identified class time along with some asynchronous work to be completed

$ To encourage exploration of issues of diversity, equity, and inclusion in the College of Law, this course will be offered this summer without a tuition charge. Students will still be responsible for paying other charges, such as student fees

Note: The times listed for May and August courses include time allotted for breaks scheduled at the professor's discretion.

Please see the course description document on the Academic Affairs page for specific course information:
